To Whom It May Concern:

Baker Boy implements an extensive allergen cleaning program for products that are produced on the same line as products that do not contain peanuts or tree nuts. This includes the cleaning and sanitizing with documentation of all equipment from start to finish in the process for manufacturing the allergen-containing products. We also schedule such products to be manufactured last on these particular lines in the production order with the allergen cleaning following the last batch. After completion of this cleaning process, testing of the equipment on direct food contact surfaces is performed using allergen protein specific swabs. Results of this testing are analyzed before releasing the equipment back to production. Also, we have storage control of incoming allergen ingredients by segregating these ingredients in a designated allergen section.

In consideration of the explanation above, the fact remains that peanuts and tree nuts are present in our facility and produced on some shared lines.

This manufacturing facility does not manufacture any products that contain sesame seeds, but some Baker Boy labeled products are produced in another facility that do contain sesame. A list of those individual products can be provided when requested.
